A Word from the Artist

When Bombom comics went on hiatus, I didn't know what would happen to Negima!? neo. But thanks to all of you, I was able to start the series up again in Magazine Special (cry). Really, thank you so much! And because of that, the graphic novels are being sold by Magazine KC, just like the main Negima! story.

And I myself will work hard, with renewed feelings, so please continue to enjoy the series! As for the content, in this volume, I present to you Anya *beep*ing, and 3-A in even more of an uproar!

—Takuya Fujima

Honorifics Explained

Throughout the Del Rey Manga books, you will find Japanese honorifics left intact in the translations. For those not familiar with how the Japanese use honorifics and, more important, how they differ from American honorifics, we present this brief overview.

Politeness has always been a critical facet of Japanese culture. Ever since the feudal era, when Japan was a highly stratified society, use of honorifics—which can be defined as polite speech that indicates relationship or status—has played an essential role in the Japanese language. When you address someone in Japanese, an honorific usually takes the form of a suffix attached to one's name (example: "Asuna-san"), is used as a title at the end of one's name, or appears in place of the name itself (example: "Negi-sensei," or simply "Sensei!").

Honorifics can be expressions of respect or endearment. In the context of manga and anime, honorifics give insight into the nature of the relationship between characters. Many English translations leave out these important honorifics and therefore distort the feel of the original Japanese. Because Japanese honorifics contain nuances that English honorifics lack, it is our policy at Del Rey not to translate them. Here, instead, is a guide to some of the honorifics you may encounter in Del Rey Manga.

-san: This is the most common honorific and is equivalent to Mr., Miss, Ms., or Mrs. It is the all-purpose honorific and can be used in any situation where politeness is required.

-sama: This is one level higher than "-san" and is used to confer great respect.

-dono: This comes from the word "tono," which means "lord." It is an even higher level than "-sama" and confers utmost respect.

-kun: This suffix is used at the end of boys' names to express familiarity or endearment. It is also sometimes used by men among friends, or when addressing someone younger or of a lower station.

-chan:	This is used to express endearment, mostly toward girls. It is also used for little boys, pets, and even among lovers. It gives a sense of childish cuteness.
Bôzu:	This is an informal way to refer to a boy, similar to the English terms "kid" and "squirt."
Sempai/ Senpai:	This title suggests that the addressee is one's senior in a group or organization. It is most often used in a school setting, where underclassmen refer to their upperclassmen as "sempai." It can also be used in the workplace, such as when a newer employee addresses an employee who has seniority in the company.
Kohai:	This is the opposite of "sempai" and is used toward underclassmen in school or newcomers in the workplace. It connotes that the addressee is of a lower station.
Sensei:	Literally meaning "one who has come before," this title is used for teachers, doctors, or masters of any profession or art.
-[blank]:	This is usually forgotten in these lists, but it is perhaps the most significant difference between Japanese and English. The lack of honorific, known as yobisute, means that the speaker has permission to address the person in a very intimate way. Usually, only family, spouses, or very close friends have this kind of permission. It can be gratifying when someone who has earned the intimacy starts to call one by one's name without an honorific. But when that intimacy hasn't been earned, it can be very insulting.

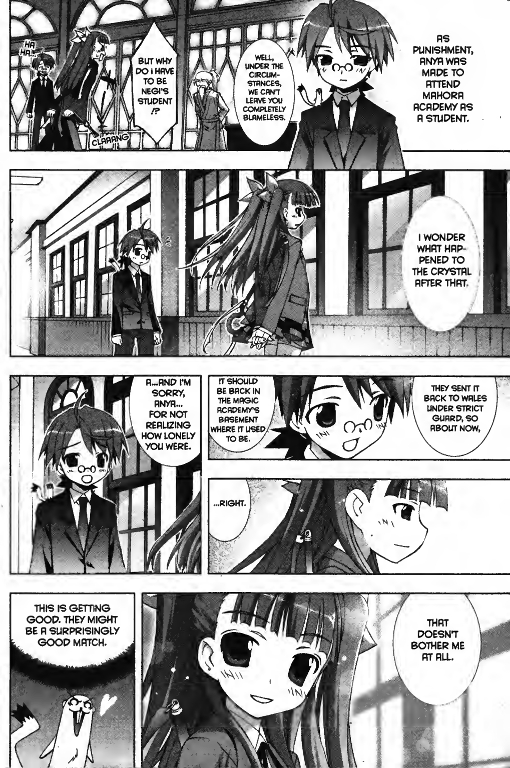
THE CRYSTAL INCIDENT...
THE STAR CRYSTAL, A MAGIC ITEM THAT AMPLIFIES MAGIC POWER, REACTED TO ANYA'S LITTLE BIT OF JEALOUSY.
HER HEART WAS CONTROLLED BY THE CRYSTAL, AND ANYA, WITH HER POWER AMPLIFIED, WENT BERSERK AND STARTED ATTACKING ME AND MY STUDENTS.
OOHH
KABOOM
IN THE END, I GOT HELP FROM ASUNA-SAN AND OTHERS TO DEFEAT THE MONSTERS,
AND WAS ABLE TO RESCUE ANYA FROM THE CRYSTAL.



AS PUNISHMENT, ANYA WAS MADE TO ATTEND MAHORA ACADEMY AS A STUDENT.
WELL, UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES, WE CAN'T LEAVE YOU COMPLETELY BLAMELESS.
BUT WHY DO I HAVE TO BE NEGI'S STUDENT!?
CLAAANG
HA HA...
I WONDER WHAT HAPPENED TO THE CRYSTAL AFTER THAT.
THEY SENT IT BACK TO WALES UNDER STRICT GUARD, SO ABOUT NOW,
IT SHOULD BE BACK IN THE MAGIC ACADEMY'S BASEMENT WHERE IT USED TO BE.
...RIGHT.
A...AND I'M SORRY, ANYA... FOR NOT REALIZING HOW LONELY YOU WERE.
THAT DOESN'T BOTHER ME AT ALL.
THIS IS GETTING GOOD. THEY MIGHT BE A SURPRISINGLY GOOD MATCH.

Translation Notes

Japanese is a tricky language for most Westerners, and translation is often more an art than a science. For your edification and reading pleasure, here are notes on some of the places where we could have gone in a different direction or where a Japanese cultural reference is used.

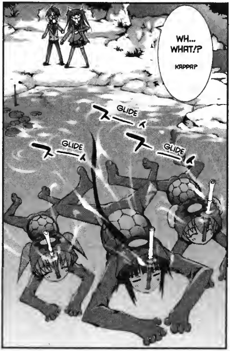
A miai is a formal marriage interview, where the potential bride and groom and people related to them meet to talk about the possibly happy couple and see if they are a suitable match. Naturally, the family would want to know all kinds of things about their relative's potential mate, including what kind of money they make.

Wabi-sabi, page 53

Wabi-sabi means "humble simplicity" and is a term Anya associates with anything that is traditionally Japanese, like the tea ceremony.



Kappa, page 59

Kappa are legendary Japanese water sprites, said to live in rivers. They have turtle shells and dishes on their heads, as you can see by the costumes worn by Kaede and the Narutaki twins.

Shuriken and kunai, page 71

Shuriken and kunai are common ninja weapons. Shuriken are more commonly known as ninja stars, and a kunai is a kind of throwing knife.

Vaulting horse, page 82

Not to be confused with the vaulting horses used in gymnastics, the vaulting horse used in Japanese physical education is a set of boxes stacked higher and higher, used to measure how high students can jump.

Seiza, page 85

Seiza, meaning "proper seat," is the "proper" way to sit in Japan, as illustrated by Yue, who could not clear the vaulting horse. It is how one is expected to sit at a Japanese tea ceremony, for example.

Gentleman, page 95

What Kotarō is specifically annoyed about is Negi's use of the word boku (first-person pronoun: "I"). Boku is a polite word, and Kotarō apparently thinks that a real man would use the less-formal (and less wussy) ore to refer to himself.

Horizontal writing, page 103

She'd be so pink, page 124

While it is revealed later that Nodoka's maid outfit is pink in color, "pink" can also be a euphemism for things related to "adult" entertainment.

Reverse Hikaru Genji Project, page 154

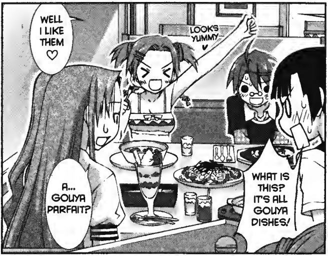
Hikaru Genji is the main character of the famous Japanese novel The Tale of Genji. While Genji has many wives and girlfriends, his true love is a young girl named Murasaki, whom he started wooing when she was very, very young. A "reverse Hikaru Genji" project would refer to an older woman, like Misa Kakizaki, wooing a younger man.

Mochi, page 155

Mochi is a snack that is made from pounding sticky rice with a heavy mallet and forming it into cakes to be eaten. A man would have to be pretty tough to lift the mallet.

Johnny's, page 155

Misa is making a reference to the talent agency Johnny & Associates, which trains young men to be idols.



LOOKS YUMMY ♥
WELL I LIKE THEM ♡
WHAT IS THIS? IT'S ALL GOUYA DISHES!
A... GOUYA PARFAIT?

Gouya, page 159

Gouya is a kind of bitter melon grown in Okinawa. Being so bitter, it's no wonder that everyone other than Sakurako has their doubts about this particular meal.

Matsuya's gyūdon, page 159

Gyūdon is a bowl of rice with beef and vegetables on top. Matsuya is the name of the department store where Madoka would want to buy this dish.

More "Cospa" than tough, page 163

"Cospa" is a Japanese company that sells cosplay items, and Negi's outfit looks like that's where he got it. The word "Cospa" also sounds a little bit like "kōha," the word Madoka uses for "tough," making her comment a little punnier.

HOW ABOUT FUNDOSHI CHEER-LEADING?
DEFINITELY NO SUCH THING!
KYA ♥

A fundoshi is a kind of loincloth, usually referring to a sumo wrestler's standard uniform.
